

Questions about Apports, Aura's of Objects, and the Seeking of Knowledge

By Estelle Roberts 2012

Just a thought about the apports that used to occur in your circle.

What about them?

How did they know who to give what, or was it just random?

It was random and we looked, I say we, there I am getting ahead of myself. Red Cloud and the other members of the group, spirit side, because obviously at that time I was earth side not spirit side, so therefore my job was to allow the ectoplasm and the circle to be placed in the right vein so it could be utilised. I had very little input shall we say in what actually occurred – apart from the fact that they used my physical body and without my physical body it could never have happened. Apart from being utilised and the ectoplasm being removed from my being I had very little input.

That wasn't really the question you were asking. To answer your question the guides, the beings who visited and spoke to all the individuals who were within the group and therefore we were aware what would spark their curiosity (and I'm speaking now as being a member of the astral sphere, not the physical sphere) we knew what would generate a little bit of interest and what people would find important, but not too important. I mean we could have given a 20 carat diamond but that would have been used in the wrong vein because it would have been used for materialistic gain and that is never the purpose of the apports which are really just little gifts and that is how they were utilised It was a bit of fun really because to dematerialise and rematerialise isn't that difficult really. I say that because I had nothing to do with it but I'm told it's nothing, not very difficult because all you have to do is break down the structure and then reconstruct it.

That's why they were hot.

Yes. Well if you'd been decomposed and then recomposed you would be a bit warm wouldn't you? I mean all your atoms were then spread apart, which they have to be to transport and then all put back together again. It becomes hot doesn't it?

Yes. We might use that mode of transport in the future.

No you can't, because you have this connection between the physical and the astral and even though the physical can be transported in that way, if you do that you then sever the connection between the astral and the physical so what arrives at the end of the journey is one dead mass and I don't think that we would be very popular if we did that would we?

No it wouldn't serve any purpose.

So therefore when we brought the apports it was merely a fun gift and no more. It was merely our way of saying these things were not here before and this is another proof of there being a higher force which was outside the confines of the Earth Plane. Would you like some apports?

No. Things are not important.

I know things are not important but to have something which was given to you from spirit would then become very precious and therefore don't say it wouldn't be important because it would, but not for the reason of egotism and we realise that. I'm going to surprise you now. It will happen but don't hold your breath as you say.

Do we need a trumpet or can it be done without?

Oh it can be done without, no problem.

Every piece of matter has an aura. Every living plant has an aura. Every mineral has an aura.

So they're alive.

Well if they weren't they would just be dust which is a silly statement because even dust has an aura. It is only the fact that the atoms are consistently moving that you have the form in the object because if the atoms stopped moving the object would disintegrate and the very fact that you have the movement of the atoms means that you have an aura. You hadn't thought about that had you?

An aura could mean that this object is really alive. We might not see the life in it but it has life.

Everything has life. Every rock. Every drop of water. All has life.

Sometimes I think we get too much knowledge.

But I wouldn't worry about it because if you start worrying about everything you get terribly disenchanted and afraid to do anything. Just accept life in the limitations of your knowledge and your, I was going to say your existence, your existent plane that you are living within.

Do you still come to the Earth Plane for some teachings?

Why on earth would we come to the Earth Plane for teachings? We would obviously go to higher spheres and this is something that the peoples of the Earth Plane find very difficult to comprehend. They think that the Earth Plane is the be all and end all of the universe. What a silly idea! It's a little blue planet, hardly even a grain of sand in the Sahara Desert and there's an awful lot of sand in the Sahara Desert believe me, but if you look at the size of the Earth Plane within the concept of your galaxy, even your sun in the concept of your galaxy, it's very insignificant isn't it? And you don't think with all those suns and all those planets that surround the galaxy, that your little sphere is the only little sphere which is utilised?

Creation itself is such a phenomena.

It is wonderful isn't it? You just think of the mind that exists, I was going to say existed but obviously the mind still exists, who could conceptualise the putting together of the Earth Plane and all the plants and all the beauties. It's quite mind blowing really isn't it? But somebody had to do it. It had to be thought, no I mean this not frivolously, somebody had to think how this could all evolve and therefore having had the thought they then had to put together the situation where it could all occur. How that all happened is way beyond my knowledge, way beyond my thinking.
