Getting upset about People who Pass Over

By Estelle Roberts 2015

It always confuses us in the astral world when people of the Earth Plane get upset and teary at the celebration or the thought of an individual leaving the Earth Plane. I then won't use the terminology that the Earth Plane often uses that the individual has died because obviously we all are aware that it is impossible for an individual to die. All that happens is the physical body which you have utilised for this journey through the Earth Plane has come to the point where it has no further use. And what do you do when you have something which you have no further use for? You discard it do you not? You do not grieve over the fact that it has been discarded and yet countless millions of people upon the Earth Plane weep and feel desolated within their being because an individual has divest themselves of their physical body.

Your physical body is something which is for your use upon the Earth Plane. It is a temple which you reside in and a temple which contains all the lessons which are required for your journey and advancement. When you have a dress, a cloak, which is past its use by date you do not get distressed because you have discarded it so do not my friends ever upset yourself because the physical vessel has finished all that it is required to be and do. You as an individual continue, continue your life, continue in the same form and mental state as you are upon the Earth Plane and that's a very difficult concept for people to fully put their heads around is it not? But once you leave the Earth Plane you do not change in physical appearance or mental state to that from whence you were. The only big difference is all the physical problems that you had have been removed.

So why get upset about it? It is a time for rejoicing is it not? All the negativity which has been surrounding you has been removed. You're still the same person without any physical problems. Wouldn't we like to live our lives on the Earth Plane in that state of affairs? But if that was the case there would be no purpose for the Earth Plane to exist. The Earth Plane exists purely for your improvement, for the improvement of your astral being.

Your physical being is important but it is only important for what it can be used for, while you are on the Earth Plane. You have family connections and therefore you have a love bond. You have friends and therefore you still have a love bond. It is merely in a lesser and different form. You have concern for those who have a "hard time" should we say upon the Earth Plane and you have a desire wherever you can to assist those people. This is an honourable thing for you to do.
