Perceptions of the Universal

By Maurice Barbanell 2015

It is good to have a period of meditation and quietness prior to the start of any meeting that we conduct. Not necessarily as long as we had at the meeting in Brisbane but a period of time is advantageous should we say.

I felt it was you coming through and you were getting a little impatient...

I would never be impatient dear girl. It is not part of my being anymore. I was, should we say, eager to converse, rather than being impatient because I have all the time in the world. That is something that the people that come have failed to realise, that we do have all the time in the world. They keep thinking about time in the framework of the Earth Plane. Even those who are enlightened look at it in terms of the Earth Plane do they not?

Yes.

And when we went to the church they failed to perceive that you cannot look at the Universal within the terms of your physical capacity and capabilities because you are looking at the stars, you are looking at the universe and now thanks to the Hubble telescope you are looking at a very, very small part of the Universal. And yet although their minds, their eyes, have been opened up to the expanses which surround them, they still think the whole universe rotates around this little blue planet do they not? It is an unfortunate scenario which we will have to deal with time and time and time again. Almost tirelessly, but it is something that is easier to overcome than to convince people, as we had to when I was on the Earth Plane, of the continuation of the life.

The acceptance of a continuation of life, when we go to our various meetings, is already there. It's already there but it's already there for other people. People don't think about it being already there for them. They still consider the importance of this visit to the Earth Plane and the family and friends which they have acquired during this visitation. They don't consider when they look for retrograde transfiguration or transgression when they are looking at their past lives. They don't look at it in true perspective in the fact that alright, if you're looking at your past lives you have obviously been here more than once and therefore every time you come here you have a family situation which during that visit was the be all and end all of your existence and yet they do not consider that fact. They still consider that the family and friends that they have on this visitation are the only ones which they are going to take forward and who will be with them in the astral sphere.

But it is true is it not? Every time you speak to anybody they do not ever consider the family and the friends that they left behind only the ones that occur on this visitation.

That's true.

And if you consider, and I will use a number of 10 because each and every one of you have been here more than 10 times, but apart from your current visitation, on previous visitations it was perfectly normal to have a family of 10 to 15. So if you have 10 visitations and you have 10 immediate family, that means 12 with your mother and father, you have 240 or 120 x2 relatives, not considering their offsprings. So it's absolutely...even worse than your family Judy. (Judy's father was one of 5 and her mother was one of 9.)

So therefore the perception that people have we have to expand, we have to widen. We have to widen the perspective that they look at things and even the people who have an understanding still look at the Universal within the terms of the Earth Plane. They look at progress and therefore the only way we can progress is upon the Earth Plane. That is the perception. Or if they have been enlightened in other spheres and they are aware that it is quite possible that the human scenario can exist on other spheres, other planets, then their mind immediately goes to there and they want to contact them. Because obviously the contact between your humanoid being and their humanoid being is far more important than your contact between us and you. But that is the misguided perception that people have is it not? They think that it is far more important that they have that physical connection and if you have a being who has actually come from another sphere, well then you are top of the pops! You really are! You have an extraterrestrial! I hope you don't mind me saying but what a load of poppycock!

That is some of the barriers that we are still trying to break through. And then you get the other problem that people read. It is not wrong to read. It is good to read because that is the way you expand your knowledge and if you don't read, people like me who publish books wouldn't get any royalties which did help a little bit with our lifestyle should we say. But they read and they read misguided teachings and they put more import on the misguided teachings because it gives them a wow factor because you have this being who has inhabited another planet and he is coming back to pass on his knowledge. So therefore it must be far superior than the knowledge that you get from the beings who come from the astral sphere.

I can assure you it is totally misguided and 99.99% of the time when this occurs it occurs because of a misguided person within our sphere who feels that it is a good way to communicate. "Let's get these people on my side. Let me tell you that I come from Alpha Century and I will explain all about the reasons why our society is so much superior to that of the Earth Plane." And the gullible will listen. They will all take it in and lap it up won't they? They will think "my God we have this supreme being who has come to spread the knowledge and obviously he's far more important than the teachings of Silver Birch, of Red Cloud, of White Eagle, or any of the other Masters who have come in spirit form to give us teachings" because it is outside our perceivable zone.

People think it's new age teaching. What is new age teaching? It's teaching twisted in a different way to get their hook in. There is no new age teaching. The teaching of my good friend Prince Siddhartha...not a very good likeness but not bad, at least he is smiling...and if you are in his presence, which I have had the pleasure of being on a number of occasions, the love which envelops you within his presence, and you can be 100 miles away, and the love still is there for you to feel. That is the essence of the love which he embodies.

You take his teachings. You take the teachings of all the Masters who came to the Earth Plane. They were not radical. They were not new age. They were all simple in their base messages but the delivery was slanted to those who received it. Obviously it would be illogical if Prince Siddhartha gave his teachings which were directly in contradiction to the normal accepted lifestyle of the Indian people at that time, to the Indian people. So therefore he utilised the parables which were not that far adrift from what people would readily accept. The Nazarene, he utilised the parables in his teachings for the people who he was giving them to.

Now our teachings have to vary slightly because the people's understanding has increased but the base of the teachings, as with all the other teachings, is still exactly the same. It's a bit like a broken record isn't it, but it's wrapped up in a different way because that's what we have to do as we go forward. We have to appease and deal with the people we are talking to and that way we will get our message through.
