The Creation of the Earth Plane

By Maurice Barbanell 2012

Why was the Earth Plane created?

I don't know if you've ever thought about creation. The creation of the world, the creation of the Earth Plane, the creation of the beings who are within the Earth Plane, because the Earth Plane was in existence prior to it being adopted for our purposes.

So what was here? Was it animal kingdom, vegetable kingdom?

There was dinosaurs.

Oh there were dinosaurs, so there was no man when there were dinosaurs.

There were men, oh yes, there were men when there were dinosaurs. There were men walking way before the dinosaurs. There was life on earth before the dinosaurs. There are many planets, shall I call them, worlds you might like to say, where life is evolving. Life is evolving in many different forms and the life that was evolving on the Earth Plane was not productive shall we say and therefore the Ice Age had to happen. We had to then start off with almost a clean sheet but we had the basic structure there to work with. (When I say we I'm putting myself as part of the Heavenly Host which is far and above what I should do but it's easier to explain it in that way so I hope you will forgive my modesty or lack of modesty when I did that.)

Because it was seen then that the Earth Plane could be utilised and therefore a change of state had to occur and then the slow progress of the human form started to evolve. It evolved in very simplified form. We took the advanced apes who had generated or evolved at that time and then we changed their DNA very slightly. We changed the molecular breakup of their being and then we introduced the more advanced soul, and I use that metaphorically because a soul of a human being shall we say is far more advanced than the soul of an ape so therefore the soul of the ape was not then utilised in these beings. The soul of the human, and I'm using terms of the Earth Plane so as you can understand, the soul of the human was then introduced into the ape form and then evolution took place and slowly progression came forward and as the progression came forward then the occupancy could be advanced. More and more people could utilise the Earth Plane but the amount of planning, it still blows my mind that the Heavenly Host had that perception millions of years ago, that they could take the earth or the life force within this blue planet and utilise it for the purpose of advancing our souls, our being and therefore very slowly life became more as you know it now.

Very slowly the Earth Plane became more and more populated. We couldn't have the population that we have on the Earth Plane at the moment in those primitive times because life just could not sustain it in the same way, so therefore in essence the Earth Plane was utilised and other planets have been utilised in the same form, in the same way. Sometimes these planets have been utilised for many more years shall we say than the Earth Plane and therefore the advancement or the purity of the souls on those spheres is in advance of that of the Earth Plane. But then there are other spheres which have in relative terms been recently occupied and these places, their advancement is far behind that of the beings within the Earth Plane.

The Universal is immense and therefore to only utilise one little speck, which is all the Earth Plane is in that Universal, in reality is totally illogical, but it is a concept that the general populace find very difficult to comprehend.

Well they think they're the only ones.

Exactly but they think that life can only exist within the confines of the rules of materialism, physicalism. If something doesn't confine with the laws of physics then it can't exist but the one big problem that they have is they can construct a life form but they can't give it the spark of life. They can't introduce a being within it and that's where their logic falls down. They are looking purely as a physical construction rather than an astral construction utilising a physical being.

A question that some of you might have thought, I know some in our group have, is the plants, the trees, the fish, the animals, they all have life force within them. They all have a vibration and therefore in that essence they all have a soul. Not the same soul as you do but they all have a soul, otherwise they would not have life. If you take the correct camera you can actually photograph the aura around a leaf. How can a leaf have an aura if it doesn't have a life form? Even the rocks, the sand, the soil, the water, it all has a life form. It's all part of the vibration of creation. They all have their own particular part of the formation plan.

We've been told that there are no oceans in the hereafter, so what happens to these magnificent whales and gigantic animals? What happens to them?

There your thinking is slightly incorrect. There are no oceans in the form of oceans on the Earth Plane but there are expanses of water. There is water and if you take away the physical being, the physical mass and therefore it doesn't require the saltwater, it doesn't require the sustenance, it doesn't require the various other problems which occur within the Earth Plane, then they can be in harmony with their surroundings and therefore they can be quite happy in salt-free water.

Freshwater.

Yes, so therefore there is still a place for them because when we refer to the fact you can't have oceans the reason for that statement is the association with oceans and the attraction of the moon which creates waves.

Tides, the expanses of water, they have no tides.

Exactly and the tides and the waves are a commodity which people associate with oceans and if you have no moon you have no attraction and therefore you don't have oceans per say but you do have water. You do have an expanse of seas. There are oceans in the Summerland which would exceed the surface area of the Earth Plane tenfold. So there's plenty of room for your whales and your fish.

What about the birds and other creatures of the air?

There are birds and they all have their part.

I couldn't possibly think of life on the Earth Plane without the birds, fishes, and other animals, it's what gives the Earth Plane its beauty.

But this is once again within the confinements of your mental capacity, and I don't mean that in a rude, way of the Earth Plane because you perceive beauty within the confines of the beauty of the Earth Plane and the level where the animals, the birds, the fish, the snails, the slugs, they all have life you see. Where they exist is not in the higher levels of your astral progression shall we say. When you leave the Summerland, when you move forward into the Fourth and Fifth Planes then those aspects do not exist because they are vibrations for the, and I don't want to sound ingracious, but it's vibrations for the lower forms of advancement. I hope you don't take me wrong there.

No not at all but the strange thing is it took an ape to almost start everything. I find that the animal kingdom plays such an enormous part.

The animal kingdom was utilised because the Great Spirit created the animal kingdom and they all have their own part. If they could have instigated the mental capacity within the animal kingdom then we could well have come back as birds, or fish, or whatever.

Wouldn't be any point to it really.

But the brain, the essence of that being, is very small in comparison with the essence of the human brain and that's because the vibration of that individual is small in comparison and therefore it couldn't be utilised. The brain of the ape is something which is not totally dissimilar to the brain of the human. Your favourite animal Judith, the dolphin, has an infinite brain. It can memorise, it can speak in its own way, it can recognise, it's aware of its surroundings.

How did that evolve?

It's a matter of the evolvement of the species and once the evolvement has taken place to a certain limit all the animals become part of a single vibration shall we say. The essence which you have been told I believe in the past, is that all animals have a group soul.
